Easter Island, the Eastermost island in the South Pacific Sea, is known for the numerous stone statues called moai scattered among its land. The moai arein various shapes and heights, representing different meanings such as payingrespect to the nature and clan. The most special and renowned moai are calledAhu Akivi located on the southwest flank of the Maunga Terevaka volcanoUnlike any other moai on the Easter island, Ahu Akivi are the only moai that lookat the sea. According to Akivi literature, the seven Ahu Akivi statues representseven young people who were sent to explore the island before its firstcoloniza-
